

INVASIVE SPECIES

An invasive species is an organism that is not native, to a particular area. Invasive species can cause great economic and environmental harm to the new area.

Invasive plants can reproduce rapidly and spread quickly, taking space, nutrients, water, and light from other plants.

MIKANIA

FORKED FANWORT

Reduced biodiversity of plants and animals.
Erosion and poor water quality.

WATER HYACINTH

WATER SPINACH

Invasive plants can reduce the available habitat.
Reduced tree canopy. They cause widespread agricultural loss and health issues

ACACIA

SIAM WEED

Invasive plants affects the survival of local species, damages soil quality and affects groundwater availability. It also indirectly affects animals by intruding the food chain.

SENNA SPECTABILIS

SINGAPORE DAISSY

Breeding and spreading swiftly .

AFRICAN SNAIL

AFRICAN CAT FISH

Infecting humans with new diseases, serving as vectors for existing diseases, or causing wounds through bites, stings, allergens, or other toxins

COCONUT MITE

TIGER MOSQUITO

Cause harm to the economy, environment, or human health.

RED EARED TURTLE

TILAPIA

